Preparing for Your One-on-One Appointments

1. Do your homework. The conference website has tons of need-to-know information.
2. Bring a manuscript targeted to their needs. A “God told me” attitude will not make a positive impression.
3. Pitching a book? Bring a One Sheet, complete proposal, and first chapter.
4. If they aren’t interested in what you’ve brought, be prepared to share another idea. Talk to them. Get to know them.
5. Be considerate. Please don’t cut into another writer’s appointment time by taking more time than has been scheduled for you.
6. Relax. The faculty love the Lord and are seeking to serve Him the same as you are.
7. After the conference, follow through on ideas or manuscripts you discussed and they expressed interest in considering.
